

From Structure to Property in Quantum Materials

Gabriel Kotliar, Rutgers University and Brookhaven National Laboratory

We will illustrate research opportunities linking structure to properties in quantum materials stressing the potential of electronic structure theory in this area. We will show examples from different classes of materials, materials proximate to a Mott transition, Hund metals and heavy fermion compounds.